106	(1) 1979 Robert Mondavi Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon 3000ml, Napa
	Valley, USA (1) 1979 Robert Mondavi Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon 3000ml, Napa Valley, USA"The Champerelle restaurant in Wellington, New Zealand, was as famous for its drinks list as it was for its menu. The owners, Lois and Stephen Peter took special pride in their wine selection and, as a result, built quite a collection, even winning the 1992 Decanter Robert Mondavi Award for best wines by the glass in the Far East. Sadly, the restaurant is no longer but the cellar lives onIn the 1990s, as a direct result of winning the Decanter Robert Mondavi award, Lois and Stephen were invited to a private lunch with Robert Mondavi at his California winery who presented them with a six pack of Opus One. Although the best was yet to come. As part of the prize, a jeroboam of 1979 Robert Mondavi Reserve Cabernet was flown some 6000 miles from the US to New Zealand. Tragically, it did not survive the transit, falling from its packaging and concussing an unfortunate courier in the process.On hearing the news, Mondavi sent out a replacement bottle from his own private cellar. It did, of course, make the local news. Rest assured, no further couriers were harmed. Although Mondavi's 1979 wine was outshone by the first ever vintage of Opus One, it is far from down and out. In the words of Jonathon Alsop, from his book Wine Lover's Devotional: "Mondavi's 1979 Cabernet Sauvignon and Opus One's 1979 premier vintage are still legendary California wines the man who lived by the motto, 'quality, quality, quality'."And by the time Champerelle finally received the precious jeroboam, there were, as reported by local news, fewer than 10 bottles left. Now? Who can say? But what we do know is that, courtesy of the Peters, both the Fonseca and the only jeroboam of the 1979 Mondavi currently available for sale are being auctioned by Webb's, alongside some other jewels from the Champerelle cellar."-Nat Sellers, Wine Searcher 22/7/18-Perfectly-aged wines from an impressive collection from the cellars of the former Champerelle Restaurant in Wellington. Winner of the Decanter/Robert Mondavi Award for the Best list of wines by the glass in the Far East in 1992. This included Singapore, Hong Kong, Japan and Australia. You will not find a collection of wines that has been more carefully or expertly cellared in New Zealand. Est. 2,200 - 3,000 subtle secondary hints on the stunning nose of ripe red and black fruits, oriental spices, tea and leather notes. There is superb intensity to the dense, serious and strikingly complex flavors that are underpinned by ripe tannins and huge length on the balanced, mouth coating and impressively long finish. The personality here is muscular and bold with the ripe acidity framing the flavors and wonderfully focused finale. It's worth pointing out that while this is still on the way up, I was pleasantly surprised at how approachable the '98 LT was even though there is more development potential to realize. Multiple and consistent notes."

	the superb 1982 Margaux may be slightly bigger, bolder, and more masculine than vintages produced over the last 15-20 years. Its dark plum/purple color is followed by notes of melted tar intermixed with sweet cassis and floral underpinnings. Very full-bodied and dense for a Chateau Margaux, with a slight rusticity to the tannins, it boasts blockbuster power, richness, and impressive aromatics. It appears set

	MW Review14 Feb 2011:"On being poured there was real tension in the glass, I felt, between Lafite's delicate style and the big, ripe character of this vintage, warmed as it was by a particularly hot summer, the summer of the bicentenary of the French revolution. There was a slightly burnt note and quite a bit of tannin on the finish. But then it really mellowed in the glass and became super voluptuous. And fragrant. But edgier than the 1997. Unusually spicy for Lafite and wonderfully persistent. These bottles had been bought in 1996 for just £55 each (which probably seemed iniquitous at the time). The 1989 Lafite is now trading at £800 a bottle, a surprisingly low premium on the 1997.Drink: 2000 - 2020" 2000:96/100"A beauty, the opaque dense purple-colored 1995 exhibits jammy cassis, vanillin, and minerals in its fragrant but still youthful aromatics. Medium to full-bodied, with exceptional purity, superb concentration, and a long, intense, ripe, 40-second finish, this is a magnificent example of Latour. As the wine sat in the glass, scents of roasted espresso and toasty new oak emerged. This classic will require considerable cellaring. Anticipated maturity: 2012-2050."

Full-bodied, but extremely light on its feet, I don't mean to gush, but it is super-intense, rich and just so meticulously crafted! This is another fabulous wine and a perfect expression for this vintage. It is difficult to forget the gorgeous blueberry and raspberry fruit, full body, sweet tannin, a multi-layered texture, and purity and palate presence of this stunning wine. Drink it over the next 20 years. P.S. In 2005, this was 50% Cabernet Franc and 50% Merlot."Jancis Robinson MW Review:19+/20Drinking2015 - 2035"Very dark and lustrous. Much more obviously Cabernet Franc than the Petit Cheval – quite rigorous and yet still ripe though with some really aromatic leafiness – in the appetising rather than underripe spectrum. Even a hint of black pepper. Extremely broad and ripe and sumptuous. Full, sweet yet with lovely lift and lustrousness – it does seem less earthbound than some recent vintages. Certainly very, very ripe. The finest tannins – like the threads in a silk shawl. A lovely skein of flavours. So very, very neat and confident. Great freshness! Very reminiscent of older classic Cheval vintages – 1983 with a bit more flesh?"

	(1) 2005 Chateau Haut Brion, Pessac Leognan RP100 JR19.5Robert Parker Review June 2015:100/100"The mineral-laced 2005 Haut Brion (56% Cabernet Sauvignon, 39% Merlot and 5% Cabernet Franc) is exquisite. With its elegance and finesse, it is not as powerful as La Mission, but the nobility and complexity of the aromatics, incredible fragrance (subtle smoke and blue, red, and black fruits) that persists in the glass, full-bodied mouthfeel (though very light and delicate on its feet), and incredible length characterize this great Haut-Brion. It is just starting to drink well, and should continue to do so for at least another three decades. It is a tour de force in winemaking, but only 9,000 cases were produced. "Jancis Robinson MW Review:19.5/20"56% M 39% CS, 5% CF (45% grand vin). Very very dark crimson with maroon rim. Truly great, very savoury, appetising absolutely classic, true Haut-Brion scents of minerals as a grace note on extraordinary ripeness without fatness. Bravissimol What delicacy with power! There is masses and masses dug in underneath here — weight and tannin and dryness on the finish but it's all covered with a fine cashmere blanket. A tiny bit of heat on the end? Extraordinary fan of flavours. Great lift and precision and then length. Absolutely no sweetness — what a contrast to many of yesterday's St-Emilions! You wouldn't think they were at all in the same region"
133	Parker Review June 2015:100/100"The mineral-laced 2005 Haut Brion (56% Cabernet Sauvignon, 39% Merlot and 5% Cabernet Franc) is exquisite. With its elegance and finesse, it is not as powerful as La Mission, but the nobility and complexity of the aromatics, incredible fragrance (subtle smoke and blue, red, and black fruits) that persists in the glass, full-bodied mouthfeel (though very light and delicate on its feet), and incredible length characterize this great Haut-Brion. It is just starting to drink well, and should continue to do so for at least another three decades. It is a tour de force in winemaking, but only 9,000 cases were produced. 	D19.5Robert Parker Review:100/100"What a blockbuster effort!
	Atypically powerful, one day, the 2009 Haut-Brion may be considered to be the 21st century version of the 1959. It is an extraordinarily complex, concentrated effort made from a blend of 46% Merlot, 40% Cabernet Sauvignon and 14% Cabernet Franc with the highest alcohol ever achieved at this estate, 14.3%. Even richer than the perfect 1989, with similar technical numbers although slightly higher extract and alcohol, it offers up a sensational perfume of subtle burning embers, unsmoked cigar tobacco, charcoal, black raspberries, wet gravel, plums, figs and blueberries. There is so much going on in the aromatics that one almost hesitates to stop smelling it. However, when it hits the palate, it is hardly a letdown. This unctuously textured, full-bodied 2009 possesses low acidity along with stunning extract and remarkable clarity for a wine with a pH close to 4.0. The good news is that there are 10,500 cases of the 2009, one of the most compelling examples of Haut-Brion ever made. It requires a decade of cellaring and should last a half century or more.
	Readers who have loved the complexity of Haut-Brion should be prepared for a bigger, richer, more massive wine, but one that does not lose any of its prodigious aromatic attractions." Jancis Robinson MW Review:19/20"57% of the crop went into this. The alcohol level was 14% in 2005 when there was lots of Merlot, but in 2009 when the assemblage was 46% Merlot, 40% Cabernet Sauvignon, 14% Cabernet Franc, it reached 14.3%, the highest ever. What problems did this cause?
	Jean-Philippe Delmas was asked. 'To find the right yeast.' He smiled, adding, 'and the fermentation was very long: three weeks with a very long malolactive fermentation. This was the first time they had such high alcohols with Cabernet.Dark crimson with a little more blue than La Mission. LOVELY supple exciting nervy nose with a great deal of integrity and complexity already. Reminds me a little of Ch Margaux in its immediate appeal and class, even if the actual aromas are different (though equally terroir-driven). Real knockout stuff with lovely suppleness on the palate and real grace. Not a blockbuster, amazingly; it seems beautifully balanced. It has the same dense tannic charge but with a bit more fruit and less austerity than La Mission. Very long. So it's definitely Haut-Brion, just more concentrated than usual! Lots of pleasure and luxury."

	(1) 1925 Fonseca 'Quinta de Rancao' single vineyard Vintage Port"The Champerelle restaurant in Wellington, New Zealand, was as famous for its drinks list as it was for its menu. The owners, Lois and Stephen Peter took special pride in their wine selection and, as a result, built quite a collection, even winning the 1992 Decanter Robert Mondavi Award for best wines by the glass in the Far East. Sadly, the restaurant is no longer but the cellar lives onIn 1985, Lois and Stephen visited Portugal's Douro Valley while travelling Europe, staying with the Robertson family in Quinta de Vargellas – the Queen Mother had previously stayed as a guest. Today, the vineyard is still owned by the Robertson family and Vargellas makes up a vital part of the blend for Taylor Vintage Ports. Just before leaving for Bordeaux, Lois and Stephen had a final lunch in the Fonseca boardroom. We understand this involved a rather magnificent Stilton, with the center hollowed out, then generously filled with vintage Port. And to add to the occasion, they were presented a bottle of extremely rare 1925 Fonseca Quinta de Rancao by Bruce Fonseca Guimaraens. Fonseca never released their 1925 to the public, as it was not a declared vintage, but the Quinta de Rancao from Fonseca's private cellar was the very best from the year; a complete one-off."-Nat Sellers,Wine Searcher 22/7/18Perfectly-aged wines from an impressive collection from the cellars of the former cellared in New Zealand.
