Stored in temperature control wine safe in Wellington.The work, titled Forest Road, is a five-metre original oil featuring over one thousand of Maughan's characteristic rhododendron flowers, in vibrant reds and purples. Art lovers may be horrified at the thought of a Maughan work being deliberately cut up into pieces, however the work was destined for this purpose.The work, which would be valued at somewhere between $60,000 and $70,000 if available for sale, represents a unique collaboration between Maughan and Christensen Estate, to mark its final vintage, the 2005 Christensen Estate Waiheke Island Merlot. The wine is fragrant with aromas of black cherry, cassis and chocolate box and the palate displays sweet fruit with hints of mocha and liquorice, giving way to a silky, smoky finish. 94	(1) 1975 Penfolds Grange Bin 95, South Australia [JR18] (Recorked in 2003) (1) 1975 Penfolds Grange Bin 95, South Australia [JR18] (Recorked in 2003)Provenance: Excellent. Stored in temperature control cellar and moved to a cool dark passive cellar in Auckland recently.Well-concentrated complex wine with developed panforte, cedar, praline fl avours and muscular/grippy dry tannins. Finishes fi rm and dry. Superb drive and vinosity. It wasn’t recognised as a great vintage at release and was largely overshadowed by 1976, but as it has aged it has shown itself to be a better wine than first thought, hence it is known as a “dark horse” vintage.Varietal: 90 per cent shiraz, 10 per cent cabernet sauvignonVineyard/region: Kalimna Vineyard, Barossa Valley, CoonawarraVintage report: Good winter rains were followed by a warm summer with a few hot spells. Cooler weather and intermittent rainfall prior to a dry harvest resulted in a high-quality crop. Est. 1,000 - 1,500

This sample was sent halfway round the world. Colin points out that 1986 was a stellar vintage. Dark brown elixir. Treacle, walnuts and a hint of rancio – and real excitement and energy – on the nose. Fantastic balance. No excess of acid nor of wood. The fruit is not tired. Nothing syrupy or pruney – just sheer power and sweetness and fabulous vitality. If this doesn't double the bids in the auction nothing will." 31/01/2016Provenance: Impeccable. 310	(1) 1982 Chateau Mouton Rothschild, Pauillac [JR18.5] [WS98] (1) 1982 Chateau Mouton Rothschild, Pauillac [JR18.5] [WS98]Provenance: Execellent. Stored in temperature control cellar and moved to a cool dark passive cellar in Auckland recently.Tasting NoteThe vintage with the label designed by film director John Huston. Enjoyed alongside a bottle of 1982 Ch Latour with grouse.This wine with a little hint of brown in the hue was extremely sweet and opulent but seemed more evolved and very slightly less focused than the Latour. The acidity and sweetness seem in danger of detaching themselves from each other. There's the leathery note – verging towards 'old ladies' handbag', as someone once described the nose of Mouton. It would probably have shown even better if there had been no Latour 1982 with its extra freshness and potential alongside. It was certainly a treat. Est. 2,000 - 3,000
